POISONER ARRESTED

Grangers Going for Harrison.

A GALE IN THE IRISH CHANNEL.

Newly Elected French Chamber of Deputies—Murderous West Virginians.

The Grangers Aroused.

By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The twenty-third session of the National Grange, which will be held at Sacramento, Cal., on November 13th, promises to be the most important held for years. John Trimble, Secretary of the Grange, thinks the Grangers were snubbed when President Harrison appointed Governor Rusk Secretary of Agriculture. In an interview in the Post Trimble says: "We do not hesitate to say the Administration ignored the rights of the farmer and has done the farming community gross injustice in placing a politician who never was a farmer at the head of the Department of Agriculture. That Department was made a Cabinet office principally through the efforts of the Grange, and when the new Administration came in we felt we had the right to suggest the name of a proper person to fill it. Col. J. H. Brigham, our Master, ex-Governor Robie of Maine and Hon. J. Woodman of Michigan, were suggested by the Order, and their appointment urged, but Harrison deliberately ignored the entire Order—snubbed it, in fact. Formerly," continued Trimble, "it was the rule of the Order that members should not paticipate in politics. There is where we made a great mistake, but we have seen the error and repented, and now it is an implied requisite that members shall put aside their political faith when the interests of the Grange demand it. We do not seek to run separate candidates, but between the two great parties, our members are obliged to vote for candidates who favor Granging interests, whether he belongs to the same political party or not."

A Community of Assassins

By Associated Press.]

ST. ALDANA, W. Va., Oct. 7.—A bloody feud is raging in Lincoln county between the Broomfield and Hall families. Floyd Dingeas, a son of the Justice of the Peace, and a prominent man, married one of the Hall girls. He quarreled with his wife and they separated. The next day Dingeas and his wife's brother met and Dingeas was shot dead. Alfred Broomfield, who married Dingeas' sister, swore he would be avenged on Hall and fatally wounded one of Hall's brothers. Ten days ago Bloomfield and his wife were waylayed and Mrs. Bloomfield shot dead and Bloomfield was terribly wounded. Two days later Purvis Bloomfield was shot. On Saturday last George Dingeas, a brother of Broomfield's wife, was shot through the leg in a fight with one of the opposing party.

Seriously Ill—A Heavy Gale

By Cable and Associated Press.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, the authoress, is seriously ill. She is suffering from a shock caused by the overturning of her cart while riding yesterday.

A terrific gale prevails throughout Great Britain and Ireland. It is particularly severe along the river Mersey. Much damage has been done at Black Pool in Lancashire and Ireland. The gale is blowing with tremendous force in the Irish Channel. A large number of shipwrecks are reported.

Admiral Porter Ill.

By Associated Press.]

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 7.—Admiral Porter is critically ill at Jamestown. His illness has already lasted two weeks, but it has been kept quiet.

The Episcopal Convention.

By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—In the general Episcopal Convention this morning Rev. Dr. Hauckel, Chairman of the Committee on New Dioceses, presented a report on the memorial from the missionary diocese of Oregon, asking that it be admitted as a diocese, and that the missionary Bishop Morris be made the Bishop.

Dr. Goodwin objected on the ground that the election of Bishop Morris as a Bishop of a diocese was not in accordance with the Constitution.

Rev. Dr. Hauckel replied that, whether this is so or not, the main question was that the diocese of Oregon be admitted.

After further discussion the question was divided, and the simple proposition to admit Oregon as a diocese was unanimously carried, and consent was then unanimously given for the election of Bishop Morris.

A Different Version.

By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The State Department, in a report by W. G. Allen, U. S. Consul to Kingston, Jamaica, of the recent riot at Navassa Island, agrees with the press accounts already published, and has in addition, a letter from Mr. Hensin, the spiritual adviser of the laborers, giving their version of the trouble. The letter is addressed to the American Consul at Kingston, Jamaica. They declare that the whites fired on them without provocation, and that it was in the defense of their lives that they killed some of their white bosses The say they are American citizens, 136 in number, and want the Consul to arrange for their transportation back to the United States.

Death of a Blind Actress.

By Associated Press.]

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 7.—Madame Albertine, the blind actress, died yesterday, after a lingering illness. She had a checkered life. For a number of years she had a company of her own on the Pacific coast. She was made blind by a colonial fever in Australia and was brought back to America on the steamer Swatar of the U. S. navy in 1875.

Arrested for Murder.

By Associated Press.]

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Oct. 7.—Intense excitement was caused here yesterday by the arrest of William McDonald, charged with being the person who sent poisoned candy through the mail, which caused the death of Mrs. McRay, a clergyman's wife. McDonald is connected with a prominent family.

French Politics.

By Cable and Associated Press.]

PARIS, Oct. 7.—It is officially announced that the new Chamber of Deputies will be composed of 362 Republicans and 205 members of the Opposition. The Republicans comprise 236 Moderates and 126 Radicals. The Opposition consists of 100 Royalists, 58 Bonapartists and 35 Boulangists.

Joint Discussion Proposed.

By Associated Press.]

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The Democratic State Committee has invited the Republican State Committee to unite in holding one or more public meetings, at which the Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor—Brackett and Russell—shall jointly discuss the issues as defined in their platforms.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

By Associated Press.]

ST. THOMAS, Dak., Oct. 7.—A steam threshing engine exploded this morning on the farm of McAndres, two miles west of here. Ed. McAffrey, the owner; Billy Paul, the engineer, and Charlie Frazer were killed, and R. H. Daily fatally injured.

Missing Bonds Recovered.

By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Grand Jury this morning reported to the Court that of the missing constitution bonds, $383,400 have been recovered. The Attorney-General say that only $70,000 remain out, and the impression is that all will be recovered.

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

F. G. Newland's Address in Full.

PLAIN TALK, BUT TO THE POINT.

Read and Profit by the Many Valuable Suggestions Made.

A large audience assembled at the Courthouse Friday evening to listen to the annual address delivered by F. G. Newlands on the invitation of the Agricultural Society. Mr. Newlands is a fine talker and told some wholesome truths that should be carefully read by every man, woman and child the State. The speech was reported in shorthand and is here given in full:

LADIES AND GENT EMEN.—A few days since the Directors of the State Agricultural Society did me the honor to ask me to deliver the annual address. I was somewhat reluctant to accept. My public speaking has thus far been confined to the argument of distinct propositions of law, or of fact at the bar, or of policy in deliberative assemblies, where the form of expression was evolved from the heat of conflict, and has not been extended to addresses or orations. But my objections were overruled and I appear before you to-night without manucript, save a few straggling notes, to address you in a conversational way concerning Nevada, its condition, its wants and requirements, and its future.

The impression seems to prevail that Nevada is dead or, if not dead, is in the throes of dissolution. Our eastern brethren of the press are discussing this question quite generally, and are calling attention to the fact that the population of Nevada is not increasing, and that the main industry upon which it depends is languishing and are suggesing either that it should be dismembered and divided among adjoining States, or that it should be deposed from its position as one of the sovereign States of the Union, and restored to a Territorial form of government. This impression largely prevails because our

MINING INDUSTRY IS LANGUISHING.

For this State, more than for any other State in the Union, has suffered from the clandestine and dishonest legislation which resulted in destroying one-half of the currency of the country, thus doubling the value of the other half in the hands of the creditor, and administering the value of all other property in an equal proportion in the hands of the debtor class. For this State not only has the general interest which the entire nation feels in the question and shares the general injury, but also suffers a particular and special injury, in the fact that silver is its chief product, and that owing to the demonetization of silver the prosecution of mining enterprises is almost at a standstill.

While the conditions of Nevada are thus exaggerated, they are in a measure true. But the causes which led to them are not lucurable. The conscience of the nation has been aroused with reference to the effects of the dishonest legislation which threw the debtor class of the nation, and I may say the nation itself, for it belongs to the class of debtors, into the hands of the

MONIED MONOPOLY OF WALL AND THREADNEEDLE STREETS.

The people are beginning to realize the political economy of the question. They begin to understand that when one-half of the currency of the nation, which constitutes the circulating medium and the exchange for all values, is destroyed, that the purchasing power of the other half is doubled and that thus the relations of money to property are violently changed, the value of money being increased and the value of all property other than money being diminished. They are beginning to understandthat the legislation which took place without debate upon the great question at issue, and in ignorance upon the part of the Legislature of the important question involved was shaped by unknown powers, and the best evidence they have of its object is its general and disastrous effect. Agitation upon this question has been most potential. It commenced with the able, exhaustive and eloquent speech of Senator Jones in the United States Senate many years ago, and has been supplemented by the vigorous, aggressive and untiring support of Senator Stewart. Indications come from every portion of the country of a change of view upon this question, or rather of an honest conviction with a reference to it, that is bound to result in the rehabilitation of silver to its old position in purchasing power. When that result is achieved, as it certainly will be,

THE INDUSTRIES OF THIS STATE

Will be revived. Mines which have shut shaft down will be re-opened, the hills and mountains will be thronged with restless prospectors searching for valuable mines.

But the period of temporary depression has not been without its benefit. Taken at its best, mining is but temporary and evanescent. Nature has hidden its precious metals in such obscure places and in such small quantities that great labor is required for their production, and the value of the product is determined by the great cost of production. The mines are not exhaustless. Mining districts become worked out, and ultimately the community which relies entirely upon mining will sink into poverty and neglect, the fortunes from its mines being taken by the favored owners to the settled and established communities, where the means of employment are within easy reach. But the prosperity caused by a fertile and productive soil is exhaustless. It exists through the centuries and through the ages. It is the basis of an enduring civilization.

The temporary collapse of mining brought the people of this State face to face with the necessity of directing their energies in other lines, and they have only recently begun to realize that they have the source of inexhaustible wealth in the application of the water of its lakes and rivers to a

SOIL KISSED BY A KINDLY SUN,

And developed to an almost tropical luxuriance—a luxuriance not accompanied by a climate inviting to ease and sloth, but by a climate which hardens and strengthens both the physical and intellectual life of man. Lands for a long time regarded as desert lands, without hope of productiveness, have, by the artificial application of water, been made productive in the highest degree, and wastes, white-sanded glistening in the sun, surrounded by massive, effort-defying mountains, have been turned into beautiful valleys of luxuriant productiveness, illustrative of what can be done throughout the entire State by the utilization of the waters which at present are altogether wasted.

An agitation has been inaugurated by the junior Senator from this State which has called the attention of the nation to the importance of resuscitating a form of agriculture older than history and more scientific in its results than the accidental cultivation of the soil which trusts to the chance of rains from the heavens.

A TRIBUTE TO SENATOR STEWART.

Recently while in Washington my attention was called to exhaustive reports and maps upon the subject of irrigation, reports upon the systems prevailing in India and other foreign countries, all prepared under legislation acted on four or five years ago, by the present junior Senator from this State during the latter part of his term in the United States Senate. The expansive character of these reports, which should have been supplemented instead of by the sloth and indifference which prevailed for more than twenty years, until the restoration of that Senator to his former seat, brought to my mind most clearly the great loss which this State had suffered during his temporary absence from the halls of legislation. To the renewal of the legislation first set in motion by him twenty years ago, and to the untiring energy and persistency with which he applied himself to all questions which interested his mind, we are indebted for the large congressional appropriations which have resulted in the ascertainment of data of reliable value, not only to this State but to the entire nation. Surveying parties have been sent into every part of the country; the capacity of streams has been measured; the lands subject to their waters have been surveyed; reservoir sites for the storage of water until the time when it is most needed have been reserved, and Nevada is just beginning to awake to the consciousness that it has wit in it energies which are bound to develop a high degree of prosperity and civilization.

The vital question with us is, how shall the energies be utilized? Shall we wait for the federal government to act, or shall we act for ourselves? When I first came to Nevada for residence about one year ago I found the question of

IRRIGATION THE ALL-PREVAILING SUBJECT.

It was discussed everywhere; on street corners, in public halls; wherever mind met mind. And I was annoyed to find that the prevailing idea was that nothing could be done without the intervention of the Government, and the people of this State must sit idly by until it saw fit to move. I disagreed with this view, and frequently in conversation with interested parties, I took occasion to express my convictions that the people of this State must act for themselves and not wait for a paternal government to help them out.

The views which I then expressed have been strengthened by my conversation with two of the members of the State Irrigation Committee, the Senators from Texas and Arkansas. I found that these senators, broad-minded, progressive and liberal, friendly to the West, and disposed to stand with the people of this section upon all questions of public policy, friendly to irrigation, impressed with its importance to the country, felt themselves restrained by their convictions as to the power of the government in relation to ublic improvements of this character. Their ideas were the ideas of the great party to which they belong; that the powers of the National Government are limited and restrained; that they extend only to matters relating to war, to commerce, and police protection; that the Government is in no sense a paternal one, and that it has nothing whatever to do with the fostering of the great enterprises upon which the prosperity, the wealth and the progress of the country depend. That all such matters are more safely left to private capital, and that the GOVERNMENT IS POWERLESS TO ACT.

And so I found whilst they were in favor of liberal appropriations for surveys and for ascertainment of scientific facts, that when a question came up as to the utilization of the knowledge thus obtained by the Government by the expenditure of large sums of the people's money, they would be opposed to such a policy; and I realized that the Government must necessarily move slowly and with great caution and that the movement would be deterred not only by the ignorance of Eastern and Southern Legislators with reference to the West, but also by convictions as to science of Government and its powers, which are the result of political training, the traditional views of a great party thus united with local ignorance, to defeat the march of progress. I then realized that, more than ever, it was necessary for us to act promptly; that we could not remain with hands idly folded and expect the Government to come to our aid; that we must utilize the information that the Government ascertained and put it into force and effect.

Now, if this is the right view to take of the subject matter, what are we to do? The great forces of nature are within our reach, how are they to be utilized? And in treating of this subject I can find no more fruitful illustration than that offered by the district in which this Fair is held—the

DISTRICT OF THE TRUCKEE RIVER;

A river which takes its source in various lakes and water-sheds of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, and pursues its course 97 miles through the State of Nevada to Pyramid and Winnemucca lakes, covering 60 square miles, and in some places unfathomable in depth. We have within actual cultivation about 50,000 acres of land within reach of this river. We have within its reach millions of acres of land, now regarded as desert and valueless, capable of greater production than the land now under cultivation. We have in the Sierra Nevadas in the water-shed of the Truckee a sufficient rainfall, which, if properly distributed during the entire year, would reclaim all these lands. We have in Winnemucca and Pyramid Lakes a body of water covering 600 square miles of an unascertained depth, which if used only to the depth of ten feet, and spread over land to the depth of two feet, an amount sufficient to reclaim the driest land, would put under irrigation a million and a half of acres.

WHY IS NOT THIS WATER UTILIZED?

Simply because during the months of the flood, when the snows are melting, in April, May and June, these waters rush from the Sierra Nevada mountains, through the Truckee river to Pyramid and Winnamucca lakes and there lie unutilized. When the waters are required for the development and maturity of the crops during the months of July and August and September the flow is scanty; so that when the water is most needed it lies useless and inert at a level below that at which it can be utilized; in the sink of the desert, without outlet, serving no purpose, except to gratify the thirst of the sun.

Now, in this condition of things what is to be done? and how are we to do it? Here is a river 97 miles long, with sufficient water flowing through it, properly distributed, to irrigate vast areas of land; here are hundreds of thousands of acres of cultivated land lying within reach of this river, easily acquired from the State as a part of its school grant. Here we have the water rusning down in a body when it cannot be used and emptying into the sink of Pyramid and Winnemucca Lakes. What would a man do who owned the entire water shed of this river, the river itself and the vast areas of land adjoining? He would take immediate measures to store a large proportion of the waters at the source of the Truckee River, to hold it there in confinement until it was needed on the land below, and then gradually to let it down as its utilization is required. Upon the exploration of the water-sheds and sources of supply of the Truckee River, he would find numerous natural lakes which constitute that source of supply—Tahoe, Independence, Webber and Donner. He would find covering 175 square miles with a water-shed of 500 square miles; he would find that by constructing a dam costing $10 000 at the outlet of the Lake ten feet high, he would in time raise a body within the lake covering 175 square miles and 10 feet in depth, which he could utilize when his judgment and intelligence would direct him. He would find similar facilities at the other lakes I have mentioned, where water can be stored with little cost, though less in quantity. He would find the entire sources of these lakes taken up by individual proprietors, the title having gone out of the Government. He would find none of these proprietors opposed to the storage of water, because it would simply raise it to its former height, to the original meander line. He would negotiate for the purchase of the land at the outlet of these lakes and having purchased it he could construct speedily the dams and he would then have the basis of the complete utilization of their waters, and the efficient thorough and entire cultivation of vast areas of land. Following this he would construct ditches with a view of carrying this water over the adjoining lands. He would offer his land in small quantities with the water rights attached to immigrants, each imigrant who established a home thereby increasing the value of the adjoining property, and in a few years he would find himself possessed of wealth untold.

This picture I have held out as possible with an individual which is capable of easy achievement by this community, if it acts with unity of purpose and with energy. There is no necessity of waiting until the Government acts. The acquisition of these properties is within easy reach of this community.

When this is accomplished, can you form any conception of the great wealth that can be produced by the proper

not only for imigration, but for power. This is an age of material progress. Probably within the last century more has been done in the way of increasing individual luxury and comfort than has been done in the whole world's history. The forces of nature have been utilized and have resulted in great productiveness, thus diminishing to a great extent the hours of toil which each individual must apply to the earning of a livelihood. Steam has been put in harness, it has been utilized for manufacture and for transportation, and the great railroads which traverse the country like the network of a spider's web, equalize the benefit which communities enjoy by securing a cheap and easy exchange of commodities. Manufacturers have given to one man's labor, the product of 100 men's labor, according to primitive methods. Agricultural implements plows, threshing machines, have been devised which have cheapened the cost of the production of the staple commodities, so that today one man can by his individual labor in conjunction with machine power produce enough to supply the physical wants of many. This is the great transformation which has been effected by the inventive spirit of the age, and you will find that at the bottom of all this progress lies the question of power, the utilization of some force of nature inexpensively, to accomplish what the labor of many men would otherwise accomplish. We have here at Reno the cheapest power known to man; the power of gravity, brought about by the flowing of water from a higher to a lower height. That power directly applied to a wheel will set

IN MOTION HUNDREDS OF WHEELS.

Which will produce the varied products of the inventive genius of the age. So that we have here not only the benefits conferred by the application of moisture to land under the kindly influence of the sun, but the great productiveness created by its natural and inexpensive power.

I am aware that this power cannot be utilized to its greatest extent under present conditions, for the reason that other communities less favored in the matter of power are more favored in the matter of transportation rates to the markets where their products are sold. This is the advantages which terminal places enjoy by reason of their natural position. It is an advantage which Reno does not enjoy but of which it will probably be in the enjoyment in a few years.

A SINGLE TERMINAL ROAD

connected with Reno in addition to the present Central Pacific would give Reno all the advantages of a terminal point, and the consequent advantages of reduced rates of freight, which would enable it to market its products as cheaply as the products of any other terminal point. Possessing then the advantages in the matter of force, possessed of the advantage caused by the utilization of the natural and economical power, it is hard to limit in the imagination the growth of this city: surrounded by hundreds of thousands of acres of land under high cultivation and holding within its limits, under curb and bit, this great power and utilizing it in the development of wealth and prosperity.

Another advantage which Reno has over other communities, which have the advantage of water power, is that it is surrounded on all sides by high hills, to which the water is already conducted by ditches. The construction of small reservoirs on these heights and the connection of such reservoirs with manufacturing institutions on the river by pipes so that the water could be applied to the wheels of the manufactury with a pressure of 150 to 200 feet in height of water would greatly increase its power. So that we have here not simply the usual advantage of water power flowing in a river, but the great advantage of water power containing in itself the pressure of great height.

The picture which I have drawn will apply, though in a more limited degree, to the

CARSON RIVER.

There the river is at present utilized in the subsistence of the two great interests of the State—the mining and agricultural interests. Below Carson are six or seven large quartz mills, costing large sums of money, enjoying the right to water which was appropriated at the very commencement of the mining industry of the Comstock in the year 1858. A mining community of at one time 25 000 souls, and now of 15,000, is entirely dependent upon the running of these mills, for when these mills stop ruuning the ore production is stopped and the miners are unemployed. These mills depend upon the water power of the Carson river. Tributary to this great mining community, and dependent upon it, is an agricultural community existing near the headwaters of the Carson, which has grown gradually in prosperity and numbers because of the market afforded by the towns of Carson and Virginia City, which are, as I have stated, dependent upon the mining industry

This community has so grown and increased in prosperity, and the value of irrigated lands has been so thoroughly demonstrated, that the acreage has been gradually increased until this condition of things exists: During the months of July until December, the entire flow of the river is absorbed by the farming community above to the injury of the mining community below. And thus the farming community is gradually destroying the life of the community which constitutes its greatest market. The mining community has been compelled to resort to legal measures for its protection. It is to be hoped that the spectacle of a foolish and expensive litigation over a scant supply of water, which, by the joint energies of the two interests referred to, could be enlarged and developed sufficiently for the supply of both, will not be afforded to this State and the world, but that intelligent and business-like combination of these two interests, relying upon themselves and not upon the Government, will result in the establishment of storage reservoirs which will abundantly supply both.

Thus far I have applied myself entirely to the material wants of this State. But can we not do something to make LIFE HERE MORE ATTRACTIVE?

I think that the attention of the stranger who comes from a settled community to this State is attracted by the apparent hardness of the life, the lack of comfort, the lack of beauty, the lack of adornment of houses and in grounds, and the many evidences of cultivation and refinement which abound in older communities. I am inclined to think that this largely arises from the mining character of the country, and from the general belief that life here is temporary and conditional. But now that we are emerging from the condition of a mere mining community inth that of an agricultural and manufacturing community, is it not well to think more of comfort and happiness in life, pleasing the eye and the ear and the senses? And here opens up a great vista of improvement in education and training. Nevada, with the restless impulse of the American people for educatson, has not been behind the age in this respect. Schools everywhere—in the towns, in the mining districts, in the agricultural communities. Wherever a few families are within easy reach of each other, there a school-house is established and some person of education is chosen and paid to attend to the training of the younger generations. But it seems that we are going to an extreme in this direction; that we are paying too much attention to the education of the head and too little to the education of the body—too little to the training of the hands in the various trades and arts.

SOME WHOLESOME TRUTHS.

The perfection to which care and training have brought animal life, as exhibited at this State Fair, illustrates what can be done with reference to man. It is a singular commentary upon human wisdom that for generations the greatest care and attention have been paid in the development of the different breeds of horses—draft horses, carriage horses, trotting horses, race horses—and, in fact, all domestic animals—cattle, sheep and pigs—resulting in a development, both as to size, speed and strength, which would have been deemed impossible 100 years ago. Did you ever reflect to what perfection man might reach if the same care were taken in his training and development? The American idea of training seems to have been to cultivate the head at the expense of the body; and hence, children are confined from six to seven hours a day in close rooms, their heads crammed with all kinds of knowledge, and little attention is paid to their physical development, that being left entirely to their own caprice and love of amusement. With the animals the greatest care is taken as to their food, time for meals, their preparation and quality. With men but little care is taken, and the stomach, which is the very seat of all physical as well as mental action, is neglected. This is particularly noticeable in frontier life. The preparation of food, so as to make it palatable as well as nutritious, is but little attended to. In a country abounding in cattle of every kind fresh meat is but little eaten, and the great reliance is ham and bacon, swimming in fat, and destructive to digestion.

It is capable of demonstration that our friend Theodore Winters takes more care of his thoroughbred colts in the way of food and exercise than on half of the people of this country do of their children.

Now how is this to be remedied? I say that towns such as Carson and Reno can be made the centers of propogandism in this direction. I undertake to say that a

SCHOOL OF COOKING

Established in Reno, and giving instruction to our girls and young women, not only to those intending to go out in service, but to those who attend to their household duties at home, and are preparing to be the mistresses of households, would be as much service to this State in the development of a hardy and vigorous manhood as our University. Good food carefully prepared, so as to tempt the appetite and aid digestion, is at the very foundation of a vigorous race. It puts in condition the force of nutrition, and developes bone, muscle and brain power.

Having thus attended to the process of nutrition, the next thing is to attend to the development of the bones and muscles by hardy exercise. I do not mean by hard work of children in the field under a burning sun, but exercise united with pleasure, under a system which tends to develop the physical being. It should be part of our very common school system here; no public school of any size should exist without a room devoted to the practice of gymnastics, under the charge of a competent and trained man.

I was particularly struck with the system that prevailed in Germany. The

TWO MOST VIGOROUS RACES

Which came under my observation while abroad were the English and the Germans; both of them devoted to athletic exercise—the English more in the way of sports, and Germans more in the way of education. In the town of Carlsbad, I found a building within easy reach of two or three of the public schools, entirely devoted to gymnastics, under the care of a doctor who had been thoroughly educated and had practiced his profession. His time was entirely occupied during seven hours of the day in the instruction of different classes in calesthenics and gymnastics, these classes coming from the schools, remaining for an hour and then marching back to their schoolroom. The maimed and deformed children were under his charge; diseases of the hip joint and the spine were here treated by gentle exercise. The State everywhere showed its intelligent care not only of the intellectual but the physical training of its children. I could not but contrast the French race—small, poorly developed and weakly—with the great English race, and a cause for it was found in the difference in their physical training. You can pass through France from one end to the other, without seeing a robust game going on; whilst in England, if you travel upon the railroad in any direction, you can hardly pass one hundred yards without seeing some game, such as football, tennis, cricket or croquet, going on. It is this kind of training which has developed the English race into the strong, vigorous, aggressive race that it is, denominating the world with its arms, its intelligence and its language.

I see no reason why more attention could not be paid to these matters in our towns; why a building should not be erected in Reno by the

PUBLIC SCHOOL DEPARTMENT,

Devoted to this particular purpose, the benefits of which are to be enjoyed by all the various schools. I do not see why grounds could not be set aside under proper care, in which games such as lawn tennis, football and baseball can be played. The American love of sport, thus far, seems to have reached its highest development in the game of baseball, in which, I am sorry to say, a select band of players, constituting but a small proportion of those interested in the game, act as did the gladiators of ancient Rome, and furnish amusement, not exercise, for the interested spectators. Physical sports should be made more general, and embrace both men and women. I hope to see in this town of Reno an agitation started, the influence of which will reach throughout the State. I hope to see the training of the physical man made as close a study as that of the intellectual man. I hope to see comfort and beauty and adornment cultivated as well as the material wants of man.

HE ADVOCATES PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT.

Did it ever occur to you or how greatly an improvement society might benefit Reno? Such societies have sprung up all over the East, in the towns and villages, and have been productive of immense good in devotoping the public taste in the way of architecture in the decoration of grounds with trees and flowers, as well as in public improvements. They have been recently introduced into California. They have many such societies in the different localities of San Francisco, vieing with each other in public improvements. In Oakland are two or three such societies, and in Berkely a society has been established which has added much to the beauty of that university town, and yesterday I observed that the city of Napa has organized a society of this kind. Such a society should not be limited in its membership to males alone. The women should contribute their refinement, their love of beautiful things to its development. From such a society suggestions with reference to municipal improvements, municipal adornment, improvement in private grounds, the raising of trees, and the utilization of natural advantages would emanate, which would make Reno one of the prettiest towns on the Coast

The people here do not realize what a feature of beauty the river passing through their town is and can be made. Instead of being ornamented, instead of having beautiful streets on each side planted with trees and with grass, affording a

PROMENADE FOR THE PEOPLE,

Of the city, the idea thus seems to have been to make it simply a sewer and depository of filth, and people living along its banks place upon it their stables and other unsightly houses. In Europe, on the contrary, a river of this kind passing through a town of this kind is made a feature of the town. Its stream is confined by high walls; beautiful streets lined with trees are upon both sides of it. They constitute the promenade of the town and form a most attractive sight. The improvements I suggest are not expensive. Prosecuted gradually on a comprehensive plan, they would be accomplished without great expenditure.

Now, my friends, I have engaged in a very desultory discussion in a conversational way, concerning the conditions and wants of Nevada. I think that Nevada has a future. I am confident of it. I am equally confident that Reno will be a prosperous city in the center of a large agricultural district, comprising hundreds of thousands of acres, and utilizing he water of its beautiful river, not simply for irrigation, but for power for great industries. I am satisfied that this district will be the type of many others in the State; that mining and agriculture will be developed hand in hand, and that an enduring civil zation will be established here. I trust that in the great material development, the development of man will not be lost sight of; that in this incomparable climate and on this fruitful soil and in the midst of great enterprises which rival the grandeur of nature itself, man will reach both his highest intellectual and physical development.

Some difficulty between the Government of Nicaraugua and the Maratime Canal Company is reported. The trouble is said to have been caused by outsiders who are opposed to the canal scheme.

The District Fair.

Special to the GAZETTE.]

CARSON, Oct. 7.—The day opened bright and clear, followed by a slight shower this afternoon, with every indication of the weather settling. The track is in fine condition. The stock show, including Holsteins, Jerseys, Durhams, horses, etc., was very good for the first day. Trotting and running horses fill all the stalls provided.

The attendance is very fair, considering yesterday's promise of inclement weather. The judges are Chamberlain, Williams, Gregory and Smith.

In the dash of five-eighths of a mile the entries were Lookout, Dew Drop and Condor. The pools sold: Lookout $10, field $5.

Condor won, Dewdrop second and Lookout third. Time, 1:07¼.

In the trotting race, three in five, the entries were Ordway, Snowslide, Gibber and Julien. The pools sold, Julien $15, Snowslide $15 and the field $16. Snowslide won first heat, Gibber second, Julien third and Ordway fourth. Time, 2:52. Race contingueing.

A large contingent of stock and patrons are expected to-day from the southern counties. The display in the Pavilion is nearly in place and promises to be excellent in all respects.

First Rain of the Season.

Special to the GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The first rain of the season began to fall here about midnight and continued till about 11 o'clock this morning. The sky is still overcast and there are indications of more rain this afternoon.

Hotel On Fire.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

The State Fair.

Never before in the history of the State was there a better feeling or more confidence expressed as to our furture than during the past week. The Fair has given all an opportunity of exchanging ideas with their neighbors as to what course was best to be pursued on the farm, in the diary or on the range, and the interchange has been fraught with much good. No better opportunity has ever been afforded the people to come together in a friendly way, and nearly every body took advantage of it. They all go to their homes wiser and better fitted for the intelligent prosecution of their work for the next year. For the farmer to get away one week in fifty-two and meet people from all parts of the State and coast has a tendency to broaden his ideas and educate him up to the necessity of improvement in every branch of his calling. He sees that he is behind the world in more ways than one; He finds that others are raising finer stock than he is, and, as a result, get better prices for it; he learns much that is of great value to him in the future in other ways and goes back to his home in every way better fitted to do life work well. Let all take advantage of the lesson learned last week and come to the Fair next year with the determination of getting away with a prize for something, either potatoes, grain, cabbage, horses or cattle, pumpkins or cucumbers, and the first thing we know we will head the list of thrifty States and be ready to meet the world in exhibits of any kind.

The Annual Address.

Those who went to the Courthouse Friday evening to hear the annual address of the Agricultural Society, delivered by F. G. Newlands, by invitation, were well repaid. The attendance would have been larger if the announcement had been made at the track Friday and at the Pavilion in the evening, giving time and place, and permitting any who desired to attend the privilege of returning to the Pavilion afterwards; but, notwithstanding the oversight, the meeting was well attended and the annual address was as big a success as everything else connected with this Fair has been.

The distinguished speaker devoted his time entirely to practical matters, and from the first held the attention of his audience by the clearness of his ideas and the easy and graceful manner of their expression. What he said about water storage and irrigation was gospel truth, and his suggestions about the physical training of our children were both interesting and true. His remarks on the beautifying of the town and the improvement of the river banks were good, and we would be glad to see the idea of improvement societies for the benefit of homes, grounds and streets adopted by every town and village in the State. The whole address is so good that we reproduce it for the benefit of those of our readers who were not there.

IT WAS LONG ENOUGH.

Colonel—Well, what's the matter now?

Private—I've got liver trouble and dyspepsia, and ought to get leave for thirty days.

Colonel—I'll give you ten, and if you take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla that will be long enough.

Fred H. Blecker, of 19 Montgomery street, San Francisco, writes: I have spent many a dollar for medicines, but the only thing that ever stopped my liver trouble and dyspepsia, was Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Gustav Solomon, of 223 Valencia street, San Francisco, writes that it has entirely freed him of his indigestion and sick headaches.

Fine Apples.

P. Nelson had on exhibition at the Pavilion a variety of apples raised at Kern Creek, Nye county, that for size and flavor cannot be beat anywhere in the world, and shows Nye to be well up in fruit culture.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

Read the 50-cent ad of a lost hat.

Read B. E. Hunter's 50-cent ad. in to-day's paper.

Attention is called to the dissolution notice of Kelly, Sleam & Co.

The County Commissioners were in session to-day to pass on September bills.

Go to Lange & Schmitt for ranges, parlor and cook stoves; best assortment in the State.

A storm has been prevailing in San Francisco and the country west of Sacramento this morning.

Frank M. Rowland and Charley Clark of Long Valley spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Reno and left for home this morning.

It is understood that the Vail Bros. have sold their Churchill county ranch and stock to the trustees of the Sharon estate. Price not learned.

Excellent, reliable and economical are the stoves and ranges sold by Lange & Schmitt; every house and store should have them. Call and inspect before purchasing.

Absent-Minded Levy.

Laz Levy of Sierraville came in to the Fair, and Saturday he hired one of Tom Hymers' best teams to take him to the track. He drove out in fine style, but in the excitement of the day he boarded a crowded passenger coach to come back to town and left his team standing hitched to the fence at the Fair grounds until 8 o'clock in the evening, when it occurred to him that he went to the track in good style, and had left the style all there. He went to Hymers' and hired another team to go out and bring the first one in.

Killed in the Snowsheds.

From Saturday's Truckee Republican it is learned that a brakeman by the name of Tollman, of Conductor Serviss' freight train was killed near the Cascade bridge by having been struck by a low timber of the snowshed. The whole top of his head was knocked off and his brains were scattered on the top of the car where the body was found a short time after the accident.

Laid to Rest.

Reno Lodge, No. 19, and Truckee Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., yesterday buried the remains of John L. Robins of New Jersey, who died on the eastbound overland last Friday.

Take in the Fair.

Let Reno reciprocate the kind treatment of Carson during the Fair and go up at least one day on a visit and give Carson such a crowd as she never had before.

Parties desiring rooms can be accommodated at Mrs. Needham's lodging house up stairs in the Steele building. Entrance hallway at J. J. Becker's saloon.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper Berries, and other well known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other Sarsaparillas or blood purifiers.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

JOTTINGS.

For all kinds of the best family groceries, go to S. T. Burich's, North Virginia street.

Fresh grapes are still to be had at E. C. Leadbetter's, where you can also get apples and vegetables.

The Riverside Hotel is full to overflowing with those capable of appreciating the best hotel accommodations.

Clam chowder, Boston baked beans and a plenty of other good things at J. J. Becker's, Chicago Saloon to-morrow.

The superior quality of his goods and his low prices are the causes of W. T. Craig's rapidly increasing grocery trade.

For an extra fine lunch to-morrow go to George Becker's Granite Saloon, where is to be had both Pacific and Fredericksburg beer.

Go to J. N. Wallace's Commercial Row grocery store for "our taste" hams and bacon, Eastern Codfish and all kinds of the best canned goods.

C. J. Brookin's variety store is the place to go for all books in use in any of the schools in this vicinity, as well as all kinds of the best stationery.

C. A. Thurston carries a full line of Lorillard's tobaccos and the best cigars, both imported and domestic, also all styles of pipes and cigar holders.

Those in need of any kind of house furniture should not fail to examine E. C. Sessions' stock and prices, for he is determined not to be undersold by anybody.

That stylish hat your best girl is wearing, which makes her look so bewitchingly fascinating, was bought of Miss Emma Gibbs, west side of Virginia street.

Send your orders to S. L. Cohoon's agency for John Wieland's Philadelphia beer, which he is selling by the glass, bottle, case, keg or barrel, with a nice hot lunch thrown in.

Its Excellent Qualities

Commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste and by gently acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

"For Sweet Charity's Sake."

The Nellie McHenry Company will appear at McKissick's Opera House Wednesday evening, October 9th. The New York Herald says: "'For Sweet Charity's Sake,' Bronson Howard's new piece, which Nellie McHenry and company presented last night, is as bright as 'The Brook,' which the same company has played for years, and is good for at least a hundred hearty laughs per night. 'Nonsense—yes, perhaps; but, oh! such precious nonsense,' as Lady Angela says. No better antidote for the blues can be found at any New York theater this week. The church choir ballet passes description."

Secure your seats early.

Parents shoud be careful that their children do not contract colds during the fall and early winter months. Such colds weaken the lungs and air passages, making the child much more likely to contract other colds during the winter. It is this succession of colds that causes catarrh and bronchitis or paves the way for consumption. Should a cold be contracted lose no time but cure it as quickly as possible. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure any cold in a few days and leave the respiratory organs strong and healthy. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of lung troubles; was given up by doctors; am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Hodgkinson's drug store.

A Disappointment.

The unavoidable abence of Mr. Hoskins, the leader of the Winnemucca band, who was called away by the serious illness of his wife, caused the guards from the above place to forego their street parade of yesterday. The Winnemuccans made a very favorable impression among all with whom they came in contact, and a repetition of their pleasant visit will be hoped for next year.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers. For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters. Entire satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price, 50 cts. and $1 per bottle at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Hodgkinson & Co., dec7;dw13

The Best There Is.

A new typewriter has been invented by the party who invented half of the Remington and all of the Caligraph. It has no ribbon, no wooden bars, but is all steel, prints true and without any blur. It costs an even hundred dollars, and is worth two of any other machine. It prints better, wears longer, is easier to learn and works faster, besides other recommendations.

SOMEBODY'S DARLING.

The Coroner Inquires Into the Cause of the Death of the Young Man Struck by a Passing Train.

Coroner Peers summoned a jury to inquire into the cause of the death of the young man found mortally wounded beside the railroad track four miles below Wadsworth and who was brought to the County Hospital in an unconscious condition on the 26th of September and died the same afternoon, and elicited the following facts: That he was 15 years of age and his name was Chas Roberts, of Omaha, and a bootblack and was traveling in company with three or four others of the same age. The testimony showed that he and his companions had walked from Winnemucca the night before and that they were very tired and stopped to rest, the boy lying down and falling asleep with his head between the ties and next the rail; that a passing train struck him on the head, fracturing the skull and producing death. The engineer discovered him too late to stop his engine in time, but the train was stopped and backed up and the boy was picked up and brought to Reno. Drs. Lewis and Bergstein were immediately called and did everything that laid in their power for the little sufferer, but death relieved him in a few hours after his arrival here.

PERSONAL.

T. Keating returned this morning from the East.

R. L. Fulton was called below last night on important business.

B. F. Riley of Paradise Valley returned this morning from California.

Mrs. C. W. Booton and family left last evening for San Francisco, where they will spend the Winter.

H. M. Yerington and wife and Mrs. D. A. Bender returned from California on this morning's overland.

Miss Nellie Rulison left this morning for St. Clair, Churchill county, where she goes to take charge of a school.

C. H. Rulison returned this morning to Battle Mountain, where he is putting up a quartz mill for W. S. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Genty and C. W. Jones and wife returned to the Pyramid Reservation yesterday morning.

Ex-Sheriff J. E. Jones is in from his Lassen county, Cal., stock ranch, looking as brown and healthy as old Cincinnattus himself.

Mrs. L. W. Lee and son, Ben, accompanied by Miss Hendricks of Wisconsin, a niece of Mrs. Lee, arrived on yesterday morning's overland.

That Beautiful Rocker.

Dr. E. Fee held the lucky number which drew that elegant spring plush rocker offered as a prize by John Breuner, the Sacramento furniture man. It was a square deal.

A Sales Stable.

To-morrow evening General C. W. Booton will leave for Oakland, Cal., with two carloads of horses, where Jacob McKissick and himself are establishing a sales stable.

For Sale or Rent.

C. W. Booton offers his fine residence on North Sierra street for sale or rent, or he will sell the furniture by itself. o7w1

Breathing the Germs of Disease.

To inhale the germs of disease with their daily breath is the fate of denizens of malaria-scourged localities everywhere. The endemic atmospheric poison may, however, be reft of its venom and rendered innoxious by a defensive use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This pre-eminently safe and effective remedy the safeguard not only eradicates the disease when developed, but enables the system to safely brave its assaults. every physical function is confirmed or restored to regularity the circulation quickened if sluggish, and a bilious habit, which of itself begets a proneness to both intermittent and remittent types of malarial disease, where extrinic atmospheric causes exist, powerfully counteracted by this inimitable fortifying the defensive agent, which has, moreover, none of the disagreeably characteristics of a drastic cathartic or an alkaloid. Fever and ague, dumb ague and ague cake, and the calentura of the Isthmus, are conquered by it surely, pleasantly. Rheumatism, neuralgia, gout, kidney and bladder troubles, constipation and indigestion yield to it.

A Change For the Better.

Change is one of the irresistable and fortunately the change is almost invariably for the better. As an instance of this, St. Patrick's pills are fast taking the place of the old harsh and violent cathartics, because they are milder and produce a pleasanter effect, besides they are much more beneficial in removing morbid matter from the system and preventing ague and other malarious diseases. As cathartic and liver pill they are always perfect. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

A Hale Old Man.

A hale old man, Mr. Jas. It is truly a wonderful medicine." For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

The Box-Making Girls of New York and Their Work.

An Ill-Paid Business in Which Many Thousands of Women Are Engaged—Pasteboard, Gilt, Spangles, Old Gowns and Pretty Faces.

Yearly and during all seasons some hundreds of men and many thousands of girls are employed in the paper box factories of New York. Working-women in this trade, says the New York Star, are not as well paid as those engaged in the more delicate work of making artificial flowers, embroidery and the like, nor as those in the more laborious trades. The boxmaker's work calls for less skill than the former, and less of both strength and skill than some of the latter. Most branches of box-making can be learned in a few weeks. The materials are light and the tools simple. The result is that wages are sometimes as low as $4 a week, and seldom above $8 or $9. The women are employed at piece work. The men, whose wages are better, work by the week. Men and boys run the machines and prepare the material for the finishing touches given by the girls.

On entering a box factory one is bewildered by a multitude of shapes and colors. There are boxes, big and little, in cylinders, in flat tray-like forms, in long, narrow blocks, and in a dozen other shapes to be only indicated by learned geometrical terms. Gay colored papers in rolls or in strips, in ribbons and in confused clippings, lie about everywhere. Great machines at one end of the room are cutting the ugly cheap strawboard into suitable shapes. The prepared pasteboard, with notched edges and long, straight cuts, where it is to be turned up for fitting, is laid in a great heap on a table before a boy or man who stands on guard before a great glue pot.

The heap is quickly arranged, so that one edge of each piece of pasteboard is slightly exposed, and with a broad thick brush the workman liberally beglues all the edges at a few strokes. Other pieces are deftly fixed to the glued edges, the pile is brought to an even edge, turned over and pounded with the mallet at the newly glued joints. The opposite edges are then glued, and finally, piece by piece, the pasteboard is stood on edge and brought round so as to form the sides of a box. A pinch where the glued edges meet makes all fast, and the box, without bottom or lid, is passed to one of the girls.

The girl stands by her table and rapidly smears a cardboard with glue. Upon this glued space she lays half a dozen long narrow ribbons of paper. Seizing the box she claps on the pasteboard bottom and secures it by adeft and sure application of the paper ribbon. She makes no pause for measurements, but tears off her ribbon when it is too long and pieces it out when it is too short. Thumb and forefinger fit the ribbon with unerring accuracy. As each box is bottomed it is laid aside to dry, and it is interesting to see how rapidly the pile grows under the girl's flying fingers. Her pay, however, is only a small fraction of a cent for each box.

Lids are fashioned much in the same way. The lid reaches the worker with edges turned up, and her work is to apply the ribbons of paper that add strength and ornament. The lid is rested upon a round wooden post twelve or fifteen inches in diameter. This stands on the table. It is a simple matter to turn the lid as it rests on the post and apply the ribbon of paper to the four sides. Hundreds of lids can be completed in a day. When lid and bottom are finished the box must be labeled, so as to indicate the article it is to contain. This work is rapidly done by some of the younger girls.

Boxes of this kind are turned out by the million and are sold at from one to five dollars per hundred. Costlier boxes are edged with gilt paper and covered with figured material. Costlier still are the bon-bon boxes. Gay lithographic pictures are imported by the thousand from Paris to ornament such boxes. They are lined with delicate paper and edged with an imitation of lace. The foundation material of these pretty cabinets for sweets is plain brown pasteboard. It is an instructive lesson in the striking results of simple devices to see one of these bare, ugly pasteboard trays grow under a girl's nimble fingers into the dainty receptacle that shall make sweetmeets doubly valuable. Bon-bon boxes sometimes wholesale at twenty-five dollars a hundred, and wages for this work are somewhat higher than in other branches of the trade.

One accustomed to the sight of the working girls of New York at their daily toil will note the absence of gay apparel among the workers of the factories. Glue is an enemy of pretty gowns, and the girls either come to the factories in their oldest garments or exchange their street dress for soiled working clothes on reaching the scene of their labor. Glue, however, does not injure face or figure and in the box factories, as in others, most of the girls are ruddy and clear eyed, while a fair proportion can lay good claim to beauty.

THE TALKATIVE MINO.

How a Sacred Bird of Siam Was Smuggled Into San Diego.

"Ha, ha, ha! Why don't you get a chair to sit down on?"

The voice was rather loud but not disagreeable, and the tone somewhat muffled, as of a person half choking with laughter.

The salutation came to the newsgatherer of the San Diego Times as he was on his daily perambulations about the city, and was traced to a handsome blue-black bird in a cage hanging under the shade of a fig tree at the residence of Dr. Gildea, on Sixteenth street, near H.

As the reporter approached nearer he was received with more laughter and inquiries as to whether he came to see the "Mino," if his health were good, etc.

A few inquiries directed to a pleasant-faced lady near by elicited the information that the bird was the sacred Mino of Siam, which as a nestling had been smuggled from the temple where it was bred by a roving sea captain and sold to Dr. Gildea at Honolulu about eight years ago.

Minnie, as she is called, is about half the size of a crow and nearly as black. In the sunlight the feathers take a blue and green tinge, and there is a spot of white upon each wing and a necklace of bright yellow about the throat.

The bill, which is large and strong, tapers to a sharp point and is orange-hued near the head and lemon-colored at the tip.

The prominent eyes are dark and bright, feet and legs lemon-colored.

The bird is valued at $250, but specimens have been known to bring $1,000 in the United States, where but few of them have ever been brought.

The species is carefully guarded in Siam, and as none are ever sold they can only be obtained surreptitiously.

"Talking about watches," said a Cincinnati jeweler, "the most expensive and complicated time-piece in the city is owned by Mr. Peter Gibson. It was made to his order in Switzerland and cost one thousand dollars. He sent an order to the same maker about a year ago for another watch to cost two thousand dollars. This watch shows the seconds, minutes, hours, days of the week and month of the year. It registers the phases of the moon, the rising and setting of the sun, names and periods of the evening and morning stars, eclipses of the sun and moon and a score of other natural phenomena which can be determined by calculation.
